STEPHENSON CALLED DOWN.

Inspector Byrnes Says He Should Have Obeyed Chief Bonner.

The refusal of Police Capt. Stephenson, of the Eleventh street station, to obey Chief Bonner's order to stop traffic on the Sixth Avenue elevated road below Franklin street Sunday night, when Leggett & Co.'s store was gutted by fire, has been brought to the attention of Acting Supt. Byrnes.

After the fire Chief Bonner decided that the West Broadway wall of Leggett's building was in a dangerous condition and might fall on a passing train.

He then issued an order to stop traffic. Col. Hays, of the 1st and Capt. Stephenson ignored the Chief's order, and trains were kept running.

Inspector Byrnes to-day summoned Capt. Stephenson to Headquarters and ordered him to make a full report of his action in the matter.

The Inspector said later that he was making a thorough investigation of Capt. Stephenson's action in refusing to obey Chief Bonner's order.

"The order to stop traffic on the elevated road should have been obeyed by the captain," declared the Inspector.

"Chief Bonner, being the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, is competent to judge whether a wall is dangerous or not, and when he decided that the wall was unsafe and liable to fall on a passing train it was the duty of the police to make it a report to him."

"I shall learn just what the Chief did in the matter Sunday night, and I have ordered the conflict of authorities between Capt. Stephenson and Chief Bonner will probably result in charges being preferred against the former."

He purchased these goods from the celebrated firm of Alfred Benjamin & Co., of New York, at a very low price.

A special sale has been opened at both stores, to last until 6 o'clock Saturday night. The stock embraces the latest Summer comfort clothing, entire suits, coats and vests, hose and "rifle" shirts, canvas suits, wash suits, etc. Although you may not be in need just now of any of these goods, it will not do you any harm to see a 50 per cent. off the cost of your summer outfit.

CAPT. BLASIER FIRED TWICE.

Held for the Murder of Thomas Wilson in Fullerton's Saloon.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. J., May 12.—Capt. Henry Blasier, who last night shot and killed Thomas Wilson in Fullerton's saloon, 31 Pine street, this morning fully realizes his position.

Blasier is captain of the coal barge Casper Wilson, of the Lehigh and Narragansett Company. His vessel lies anchored at the Central Railroad coal wharves. He lives at 36 Pine street.

Wilson was an employee of the Singer Sewing Machine Company and lived at 77 Pine street with his wife and four children.

Blasier's children and those of Fullerton, whose place aliases Blasier, had a quarrel on the street, and Blasier, a stepfather of Fullerton, is alleged, slapped the face of one of the boatman's girls, who ran in the house crying, and told her father.

He came out, and seeing Mrs. Henry sitting on the sidewalk, struck her on the face with his fist, drawing the blood and knocking her hat.

She yelled, and Fullerton rushed to her assistance, armed with a baseball bat. Blasier, who is a tall, powerful built man, ran into Fullerton, and picked up a stone and hurled it at the saloon-keeper, who dodged and ran into his brother's saloon, dragging his stepdaughter along with him.

Just at this moment Wilson, who was charged with the duty of looking after the saloon, saw the fight, and rushed to the spot and entered the saloon as Fullerton closed the double doors and locked them, but forgot to put in the bottom lock.

Blasier meanwhile ran to his vessel, and fired a shot into the saloon, three of which hit his brother, who was badly injured, and entered, pistol in hand, in pursuit of refuge.

Fullerton jumped behind a post at the end of the counter, while Wilson was talking to him, started to walk toward a table. Blasier planned to shoot him from behind, and leveling the weapon at his head, pulled the trigger. A bullet struck him in the back, and he fell to the floor, and staggered back a few paces.

He Is Resting Quietly at the House of His Daughter.

Walter Damrosch, son-in-law of Secretary of State James C. Blaine, at whose house the latter is lying ill, said this morning that Mr. Blaine was resting easily. His condition was about the same as yesterday.

Dr. Dennis and Janeway, who are attending Mr. Blaine, had recommended rest and quiet, and he was observing the instructions of the physicians to the letter.

Although the Secretary is anxious to return to Washington, Dr. Janeway thought it would not be advisable to undertake the fatiguing trip.

Mr. Blaine will therefore remain in the city, but how long Mr. Damrosch was unable to state this morning.

"It will all depend on the advice of the physicians," said Mr. Damrosch. "Mr. Blaine's illness is not serious. He is suffering from indigestion."

Neither Dr. Janeway nor Dr. Dennis had tried to see their patient at 9 o'clock this morning. They will issue a bulletin as to Mr. Blaine's condition during the day.

WAS VINCENTO MURDERED?

His Body Identified To-Day by His Son, Who Alleges Foul Play.

Michael Angelo Delguidice, a young Italian living at 348 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, told the Coroner to-day that he believed his father, Vincenzo Delguidice, aged fifty-eight, had been foully murdered by somebody on the night of April 19, at the foot of One Hundred and Tenth street, East River.

Delguidice had identified earlier in the day the body of a man found in the East River as that of his father. The body was found by a policeman some time last night.

"My father," said Michael, "was employed on a scow at the foot of East One Hundred and Tenth street on April 19, and he was killed by a man who was with him."

"About midnight he and another Italian, who lived some place on East One Hundred and Thirtieth street, and who was working on the same scow unloading ashes, were seen by a watchman quarreling behind a pile of rubbish near the river."

"I really soon there were cries for 'help, help, to the broken English. The watchman to the place but old Vincenzo was gone."

Michael Delguidice said that the police had a description of the man and he will be arrested.

BLAZED UNTIL 1.30 P. M.

The fire in Schwanenchild & Sulzberger's big store at 100 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, which flames it up half the city at midnight, were not put out until 1.30 this morning, and then the factory was in ruins.

The building, which was 125 feet by 30 and four stories high, was filled with hides, fat and slaughter-house refuse, all highly inflammable, and which gave out intense heat.

There was no hope of saving the building in which the fire originated, and it was abandoned by the fire department, and was the only building in the city which was completely destroyed.

This evening a deputation from the Cleveland Democracy will escort the ex-President to his home in Ohio, which is to be formally dedicated to-night.
